Democratic Convention.

[Kennebec Journal] boldly forward as the avowed champion make a stand for the rum power but nominated as its candidate a man whose chief claim to the position was his devotion to high license and the open saloon.

To-day the State of Maine has the spectacle of one of its great political parties endeavoring to turn back the great tem perance work of the last half century and nake the rum shop once more an open and legally protected feature of our various communities. We see this party pledged to the effort to give standing and respe bility to the liquor traffic, to entrench with all the saleguards of law itself the tippling shops that will stand as a menace to the social life of every community. The issue between the two great parties is sharply

The Republican party stands pledged to temperance and prohibition. The Democratic party stands pledged to intemperance and high linense. The lines are clear and distinct and every voter must decide which side of the fence he will stand upon. The position of the Democratic party upon this question is largely due to the efforts. The Counceliet I Milital Life Ins. Co. State. It was their emissaries and largely their money that brought out the lece lelegates. Some of their paid agents and travelling salesmen were upon the floor of the convention as delegates, while others did equally as effective work in looking after undecided delegates.

It is an open secret that enormous sums of money were pledged the party for campaign purposes upon the condition that it should take a position for license. The bribe was too alluring and won to that standard many delegates whose natural inclimations would have led them to have dodged the whole question. But all of the Democratic party cannot be brought to support this position. support this position.

Friends of temperance, the time has ne for united action. The foes of prohibition and social order have challenged you to the conflict. There can be no doubt of the rotal. The voters of Maine are not yet prepared to go back to the open salone. They are not ready to place the seal, Dirigo, upon any tippling shop to give it respectability in its unholy work, and they will say so at the coming elec tion, in tones to explicate that the friends of temperature all over this broad land will understand that Mains is still in the front rank of probibition States.

For a convention, in which the party was no more adequately represented then in this cos, to take so radical a departure was an examplingly real and recition act, especially so in view of the fact that the But whom the gods with to destroy first make said. The Hanger gentlemen who went home feeling so kappy last night will prohably discover before many days that a considerable fraction of their own party is not prepared to take the dose prepared for them. The rural Democracy are now, and always have been, strong prohibitionists, and they are not I kely to surrender their convictions at the behest of a convention in which a large section of the party was not represented. Libeting JOS PH F. SNOW. at the convention from a purely selfish nt of view the Republicans have no resson to find fault with its performance. It will make the Republican campaign easier and the Republican victory bigger.

[Portland Argus after First Conventions] supported liceuse at Augusta appear to feel almost as much disappointed as the Republican managers, who were so sure it would carry. We tender our condolence to the latter. They evidently feel badly. Largus after Second Convention. No wonder Democrats and others are > RRAVERY. A few weeks since, willie on route by steamer from Marseilles to Algiers, the ship's second officer, several Algerian officials and myself were copying the bulmy night at a late hour on deck, relating icstances of individual bravery and noble sacrifice having come under our personal observation, when the second officer gave "On the 14th of October, 1883, I witness-

> GOLD SHIPMENT. When one recalls the fact that millous upon millions of dellars in gold annually seek Europe to provide for the necessiti teresting one. The bank of America is the largest single shipper of gold from New York, and indeed from the United States. Shinments are made to stout kers. very much like the ordinary beer-keg. Every one contains $50,000 in coin or bar gold. The latter is the favorite for these hipments, since the Government has permitted the Sub-Treasury to exchange cold dollar shipment, is liable to loss by abradollar shipment, is liable to loss by abra-sion of from eight to twenty ounces, or from $128 to $320; while the pare only October 1, 2, lose about three-fourths of that value. Where coin is sent, double engits the preferred. They are put in stout canvas hags each one containing 123 double eagles, or $5,000; and ten bage fill each keg. About the only precaution taken are scaled to the head by the hardest of wax, and stamped with the consignor's name. The average insurance is about Sout $1,500 per $1,000,000. Then there is an 1, 2. expetes of about 22 per keg for packing while County Agricultural Society-and certage aboard sbip, or $200 for the and cartage aboard ship, or $200 for the same sum, and the inevitable tons by abrealon, whatever it may prove to be. There are great Well-street fluxes shipping from Excient, September 30, October 1, 2. 125,000,000, to 1240,000,000 annually. Some of these have for year's barred themselves, and assert that the saving has been sufficient to replace a loss of $1,000,000. These are large sigures; but this has become a country of large figures and affairs.

JAX GOULD. It is an exceedingly himb a fallow citizen that ever gets the advantage of Mr. Jay Gould. And yet I have invest on two occasions seen him, in a sense, at the mercy of the most God forsaken of human beings. One was quite recent, when on walking from his office to his home, as is his custom for exercise, being for a moment without the escort of young George Gould who had halted to speak to a friend, he was so importuned, lustled and offensively pushed to the wall by a foul old beggarwoman, evidently having no idea who the little big man was, that to rid himself of the hag he plumbed a pretty heavy piece of coludate her rhenmy and trembling hand. The other, was the most remarkable Divet-Lazarus scene i ever expect to look upon; one strong, upexpected and dramatic enough for a great situation in fiction or upon the stage. occurred in the summer of 1883, in the open upper, or La Salle street, rounds of the Grand Pacific Hotel, in Chicago. RUINING CAR SURPASS 11.

The Gurney Heater, placed in my house two years ago, is a pronounced success. For its ability to maintain a comfortable temperature in moderate cold weather mothing on equal it, and for keeping the house warm in extremely cold weather NOTHING CAN SURPASS IT.

The case with which is is managed is a surprise to us, and is a great economy in coal.

HISTORIC HILLED CLTY such weath of scene in shore and bay, island and reaf, headland and lighthouse spectral and dim: and when the beach is gained, recall all reaches of wave-waippe your eyes have rested upon, and there will be none that ever pictured to you the inexpressible, if almost unseen, nagic of Newport's surf.

From Ochre Point across to Cormo ant Rock or Sachuset Point, a bit to its north, s perhaps two miles. Across this disat most times can be seen only spiramering ripples dancing in the sunlight. A mile and a half to the north lies the beach, a perfect semi-circle opening to the south. Let the sea at the mouth of this mile from the beach this eye can trake the orming of gentle undutations, far separate t first, but moving forward with increasing height, volume and nearness, and, as they advance, as gradually but regularly shaping from parellel to convex lines. Soon these have become tremendous waves. Suddenly at the crest of the foremost one, as if an electric spark had lit the whole coastwise advancing disc, a spuchy and almost detached creet seems to hover above. In quick succession this catches the delicate rim upon scores and scores which follow. Seen obliquely from the umn of solciery in blue, with a million pemendous cockades of white above.
